federal organization created to provide and housing to newly freed blacks also tried to help the freedmen and their former masters get along they could sell Confederate land taken from slaveowners in portions of up to _____ acres per buyer

(a myth was that slaves had been promised 40 acres and a mule, but this is not so)

Because the Bureau only provided help with labor, food, and housing, for the former slaves was severely lacking unfortunately, the Bureau was unable to protect the slaves from the ______, who terrorized freedmen for trying to vote, hold a political office, or own land fun fact: the Freedmen's Bureau was headed by Headed by Union Army General ______, born in Leeds, Maine; he attended Monmouth Academy, North Yarmouth Academy, and Kents Hill School and graduated from Bowdoin College; graduated fourth in his class from the United States Military Academy and fought valiantly for the Union in the Civil War, losing his arm and earning the Medal of Honor put in a "_____" which said that you could only vote if your grandfather had voted added a ______: a yearly tax paid to vote and had to bring receipt with you the "______ of 1882" (SC): separate boxes for each position illiterate voters couldn't tell which box to use - boxes were even moved around!

The Amendment

(ratified in 1870)

granted African American men the right to vote

"the right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude"

(only fully realized when the Voting Rights Act was passed in 1965)

Reconstruction Ends

South needed rebuilding and the North was tired of dealing with racial problems

Southern resentment for the North continued to build white Southerners who worked with Northerners considered traitors in the South

Northerners who moved to the South after the war some were dishonest, stealing from the locals supposedly carried all their belongings in a bag made of carpet

30-year-old Homer Plessy, an "_____"
(1/8th black), sat in white section of a railroad car was was arrested

his case was appealed all the way to the Supreme Court in 1896, the Supreme Court upheld the Louisiana segregation as constitutional Justice Henry Brown wrote:

"The object of the Fourteenth Amendment was undoubtedly to enforce the absolute equality of the two races before the law, but in the nature of things it could not have been intended to abolish distinctions based upon color, or to enforce social, as distinguished from political equality or a commingling of the two races upon terms unsatisfactory to either."
