Hieronymus Bosch
date and place of birth and death	(?) 1450, Hertogenbosch - August 1516, Hertogenbosch	Citation: Pioch, Nicolas. "Hieronymus Bosch." WebMuseum, Paris . October 14, 2002. Accessed September 22, 2015. http://www.ibiblio.org/wm/paint/auth/bosch/contributions to the Renaissance (1-2 of the major contributions)	Most of Bosch's paintings were depicted as triptychs, or paintings that have three panels placed next to each other.¹ Bosch's most famous painting is The Garden of Earthly Delights, which shows Adam and Eve and all the "earthly delights" of this world, as well as the horrible tortures that await sinners in hell.² Bosch's second most famous painting is named the Adoration of the Magi, the depiction of the three kings visiting Jesus, Mary, and Joseph on the night of Jesus' birth.³	Citations: ¹"Triptych." Merriam-Webster. http://www.merriam-webster.com/dictionary/triptych Accessed September 22, 2015. ²"Hieronymus Bosch Biography." Hieronymus Bosch: The Complete Works. http://www.hieronymus-bosch.org/biography.html Accessed September 22, 2015. "Adoration of the Magi." Museo Nacional del Prado. https://www.museodelprado.es/en/the-collection/online-gallery/on-line-gallery/obra/adoration-of-the-magi-2/. other significant life events ("you need to know this" information)	A disastrous fire destroyed over 4,000 houses in Bosch's hometown of Hertogenbosch (a city in Brabant, south of where the Netherlands is today). Bosch was only 13 at the time and lived in this town, and as a survivor he must have seen terrible sights – this may have influenced his paintings.	"Hieronymus Bosch Biography."
at least one "fun fact" – cool info that would impress your friends	Only about 25 of his artworks remain; most of them were purchased by Philip II of Spain, which is why most of them are in the Prado Museum in Spain.
